

Further delays to the Grose River Bridge should make you cranky

Description

The Redbank project, and associated wrangling over the promised Grose River Bridge crossing goes all the way back to 2008.

So if you're angry or confused about why it seems that this infrastructure keeps receding to the horizon, then I'm with you.

Why is it taking so long? And why, after this week's Council meeting, is it going to be delayed even more?

Here's what you need to know. This video lays out the timeline of this issue.

I have been on about this issue for this entire term of Council.

From 2016:

About the Redbank development at North Richmond

And 2017:

About the Grose River bridge and the Redbank development

Category

1. Uncategorized

Tags

1. Development
2. urban sprawl
3. Redbank
4. Grose River Bridge

Date Created

August 11, 2021

Author

councill

default watermark